CREATING A LEGACY

Great cities have great parks. As cities grow, communities deserve great public parks in or near their neighborhoods, providing accessible recreation, contemplation, and an enhanced quality of life. Founded over a decade ago, and inspired by Frederick Law Olmsted, The Parklands of Floyds Fork was created to bring fresh vision to the development and preservation of new public parklands. The Parklands of Floyds Fork care not right through the heart of the last major undeveloped section of Metro Louisville. It preserves a fascinating landscape while creating the finest urban edge in the country. With support from the community, The Parklands raises the funds needed to ensure proper maintenance of all facilities, as well as programming that educates and promotes access to the outdoors. The result is an incredible team that cares for the parks and our visitors in every kind of weather and condition, maintaining a high standard every day.

Green spaces are vital for thriving communities, and the uncertainties associated with COVID-19 highlighted this during the spring of 2020. Thanks to the strong financial and maintenance foundation laid from funds raised in 2019, we were able react to the crisis with alacrity and efficacy, providing individuals and families in Louisville a place of solace during these trying times. Since the pandemic began, The Parklands has seen a record number of visitations, nearly doubling our record from 2019 visitations, showing the importance of this park system. This is a legacy project for our community and one that will provide economic, environmental, and community benefits for many years to come, during good times and hard times.

Leaving behind this nearly 4,000-acre legacy are Betty and David A. Jones Sr., leading community philanthropists and parents to Parklands Founder, Dan Jones. The Parklands is one of their great legacies, not just because it’s beautiful, well-used and well-loved, but because it extends their curiosity, their love and respect for all people and the dynamic ability to create and lead positive change. Betty and David A. Jones will live on through their spirit of community, The Parklands raises the funds needed to ensure proper maintenance of all facilities, as well as programming that educates and promotes access to the outdoors. The result is an incredible team that cares for the parks and our visitors in every kind of weather and condition, maintaining a high standard every day.

The result is an incredible team that cares for the parks and our visitors in every kind of weather and condition, maintaining a high standard every day.

As weeks, months and years pass by, we are reminded and humbled by how the community has embraced this nearly 4,000-acre, visitor and donor-supported public park system. With 3,111,680 visits in 2019, we have seen all walks of life use this community treasure in a place of solace to take a relaxing stroll through one of our hiking trails, to go on a bike ride on the Louisville Loop, or to simply sit near Floyds Fork creek and appreciate its beauty. This special community asset is provided by donors like YOU, and we are so grateful for your generosity. Thank you for your generosity!

The Parklands’ team preserves and enhances each and every corner of our nearly 4,000-acre park, and we’re able to do so thanks to your support. Through restored meadows and reforested areas, we have provided a fully-connected forest corridor to protect and preserve a variety of native wildlife and plant species so that they may thrive. We have seen the positive effects of these efforts through the return of the American Bald Eagle, Bobwhite Quail, the Virginia Rail and the Sora, among others.

On a chilly Saturday morning on December 7, 2019, Raptor Rehabilitation of Kentucky, Inc. released a rehabilitated bald eagle in The Parklands of Floyds Fork. Nearly 700 community members gathered to celebrate the release of this majestic bird on one of America’s most patriotic days, National Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day.

The mature female eagle sustained severe wing and leg injuries and spent eight months being nurtured back to health by the team at Raptor Rehab. Staff at the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife recommended The Parklands for the release as it contains suitable habitat to help the eagle thrive. We are proud to have high-quality habitat for these majestic creatures to flourish.

Bald Eagle Release

- 77,980 trees planted to date
- 1,725 acres of forest managed in 2019
- 460 acres of meadows managed in 2019
- 450 trees treated for invasive species in 2019
- 450 species of native plants thrive
- 242 total species of mammals, fish, amphibians and birds

Field & Fork Grove Tree Planting

In December of 2019, 383 trees were planted at the new Field & Fork Donor Grove, nestled along Seaton Valley in Turkey Run Park. Field & Fork attendees raised their auction paddles to support reforestation of our riparian forest. Our Horticulture and Natural Areas team spent a day planting and ensuring that this grove grows to be lush for future generations. The variety of species now growing in this special grove include Maple, Oak, Sycamore, Tulip Poplar, Bald Cypress and Hackberry. Although these new trees are pint-sized today, they will grow to be an essential part of habitat in The Parklands.

Tree Restoration Project

The Parklands Horticulture and Natural Areas team transplanted mature trees from the George and Betty Gibbs American Chestnut Grove in Beckley Creek Park to Highland Crossing in Broad Run Park. This new location was specially chosen as it offers soil that is well-suited to the chestnut, ensuring optimal growth and vitality for the newly planted trees. In addition to planting the American Chestnut at this new site, other species of trees carefully planted include White Oak, Cherry Oak, Pin Oak, Tulip Poppies, Witch Hazel, Sweet Gums, Hop-Hornbeam and Hickory.

EDUCATION

Terms in your support, The Outdoor Classroom enhances scientific literacy for children throughout the greater Louisville community. The Outdoor Classroom has delivered more than 95,000 outdoor education experiences to children and adults since 2013.

The hands-on, outdoor learning experiences offered by The Parklands Education team, from week-long summer camps to weekly peer Wednesdays programs, lead to a deeper understanding of our Kentucky landscape and the creatures that live within it. These experiences foster a community of environmental stewards. Generous grants, from supporters like you, make field trip programming accessible to Title I schools and nonprofit programs.

- 19,500 outdoor education participants in 2019
- 8,900+ underserved youth participated for free
- 14,390+ field trip participants from 49 zip codes
- 3,000 early childhood education participants

“‘The field trip was the best I’ve had. I loved being outdoors, but my favorite part was being able to learn about adaptation, plants and the birds we saw. It was so much fun!’

- Outdoor Classroom Student

S.E.E.D. PROGRAMMING

The Parklands continued its exciting education initiative in 2019, the S.E.E.D. (Stewardship, Exploration, Education, Discovery) program. This program connects underserved youth and adults to The Parklands through engaging, exploration-based science programming in the parks and in schools. S.E.E.D. aims to foster a sense of place and stewardship ethic among all participants using the many different habitat types throughout The Parklands’ nearly 4,000 acres. It also aims to supplement STEM education within the public schools system, creating the scientists and conservationists of tomorrow.

Any traditionally underserved group or Title I school is eligible for S.E.E.D. Qualifying partners receive four in-park and outreach education programming led by Parklands Interpretive Rangers at least four times a year! Over the past three years, we have served over 20,000 students with the S.E.E.D. Program. These experiences, both in the parks and at the schools, are provided free of charge thanks to donors like you!

MOSS GIBBS WOODLAND GARDEN

As the newest amenity to open in 2019, The Moss Gibbs Woodland Garden, located in Broad Run Park, reveals the dynamic nature of Kentucky’s living woodland landscape and provides an immersive opportunity for discovery. Part of the charm of the 15-acre garden is its commitment to authenticity. Planners took special steps to preserve the space, lightly editing existing flora and features before adding complimentary plants and man-made wonders, including three tree rondels, two wooden decks with dynamic views of the landscape, a dry-laid stone bridge and two winding trails to guide visitors from room to room, through the enchanting space. Conceived in 2013, the Woodland Garden was designed by local firm Bravura Architecture in consultation with Rick Darke, while former Horticulture Director Tom Smarr oversaw the project and assisted in the design.

OPENING DAY

The public gathered on Friday, May 10, 2019 to celebrate the exciting opening of the Moss Gibbs Woodland Garden. To mark the opening of this cleverly designed garden, a press conference was held at the Ogle Foundation Woodland Pavilion, at the western entrance of the new garden, while park leadership, project designers and key supporters spoke to community members about the 6-year project.

Following the press conference, our special guests were among the first to explore the new garden. This newest attraction is located in Broad Run Park—the southernmost section of The Parklands of Floyds Fork.

“My primary idea was to use this already rich site to edit and create spaces, paths and destinations to reveal to visitors how much wonder there is in Kentucky woods, fields, streams and river edges.”

- Rick Darke, Landscape Design Consultant

IT STARTS WITH NATURE

This artistic garden sits along a hillside blessed with the perfect angle of sunlight, ideal soils, and centuries of growth. While causing as little damage to the existing natural woods as possible, 47,000 plants, paths and hidden places were added, creating a partnership between the existing landscape and new. Visitors are encouraged to sense and enjoy the rhythms and textures of the garden and find the extraordinary in the ordinary, to explore the magical encumbrances of its edges, layers, aural qualities, luminous qualities, seasonal contrasts and views.

ROOMS TO GROW

The core design philosophy emphasizes the art of observation and the idea that a woodland landscape can be perceived as a series of rooms defined by rocks, shrubs and other living layers. Crafted by editing existing vegetation and adding complimentary plantings, the varied spaces of the garden present a domestic balance of intimacy and immensity. The garden includes qualities and elements representative of Artist, private gardens, yet are here made free for all to explore and enjoy.
SUSTAINING A LEGACY

Construction of The Parklands was made possible through community contributions that totaled nearly $130 million. Now that construction is complete, your support helps protect and maintain that investment as we annual basis through The Parklands Fund, our annual campaign. We thank you for committing to supporting and maintaining this beautiful community asset, and hope you are as proud as we are of what we have accomplished together. Because we receive no tax revenue for annual operations, our funding model relies on three main sources: your donations, earned income from facility rentals and programming fees, and support from the 21st Century Parks Endowment. Together, these sources ensure a sustainable future for The Parklands.

Your contribution is truly an investment in our community. Not only does it make free admission to the park possible for all, but it provides significant benefits for our environment, economy, health, and education. With an annual operating budget of more than $4 million, we rely on you to support this community asset.

Field & Fork
In the event’s seventh year, nearly 600 guests gathered on a beautiful spring night for the Hockensmith Field & Fork presented by JPMorgan Chase & Co. The event generated nearly $100,000 with a match from the Murphy Family Foundation, for a total of $200,000 in support of The Parklands of Louisville.

The event is an annual celebration of The Parklands’ work to preserve and enhance Louisville’s urban parks and green spaces, and to provide opportunities for visitors to enjoy nature, history, and art.

Field & Fork is a celebration of food, music, and the parklands. The event features live music, a food market, a silent auction, and a raffle.

The Silent Raffle and Live Auction offer exciting opportunities to support The Parklands and its mission to preserve and protect Louisville’s urban parkland.

Thank you to everyone and event sponsors for helping us celebrate the gift of the parklands.
